

SUNDAY LEAVE PASS 2016

PLEASE NOTE: Before we get into the final results for the 2016 Sunday Leave Pass season and the end of year golf trip. Please make sure you let us know as early as possible if you will be playing in January. We are expecting bigger attendances each month next year and we have only booked for limited players. With a few new faces expressing some interest in landing a regular spot it sounds as though the numbers may go up next year. We hope to see you all out there again in January at Gardiners Run. We will have the 2017 laminated fixture cards available for the first few rounds of next year.

A copy of the fixture has been posted on the Sunday Leave Pass Website. <http://www.sundayleavepass.com/calendar/> and it has also been included at the end of the golf trip results blurb. You are now able to download the entire fixture onto your mobile phone calendar and you will soon have the ability to confirm your status online via the new Sunday Leave Pass website.

If you haven't already can you please let us know if you are expecting to play next year, we have booked for a maximum of 32 players but we need a more accurate guide on who we should expect to play regularly in 2017? If we don't hear or receive a response from you, in order to clean up the current data base we will remove your details from the distribution list unless you specifically request otherwise.

PLEASE NOTE: If we don't hear from you then we may assume your email is no longer active and you may be removed from distribution lists.

Final results for Sunday Leave Pass Social Club 2016

Proudly presented to you by our Sponsor's for the 2016 season.

We would also like to make special mention to say thanks to Dale Robinson who has been a long term supporter, player and sponsor via DNR print of the Sunday Leave Pass Social Club.

It's always important to remember who your sponsors within the social club are and to give them a referral or utilize their services if and when the opportunity ever arises. Dale has had an ongoing gentlemen's agreement with Sunday Leave Pass social club where any business he receives via club members or contacts he kicks a percentage back to the social club directly.

Cheap Printing check out what's' available don't forget to contact Dale if you need any Printing supplies for 2017. Please remember to support the guys in the club every chance that you get.

All of our prize golf balls are a direct result of a most generous donation negotiated by Peter Hutson through his work. This was an incredibly wonderful boost to the club and we should be most grateful for the effort Pete made to secure the cash commitment from his boss and we personally thank THE WOOD TECH GROUP for getting involved with the Sunday Leave Pass Social Club.

The Sunday Leave Pass Social Club has now been in action for over 12 years and over that time we have just about seen it all, just about anything that could possibly happen on the golf course good or bad has, at one time or another happened within the group. About the only thing missing from our highlights and low lights portfolio is a HOLE IN ONE. Geoff Cooper from Evergreen Winery Tours has been sponsoring the Hole in one prize for the last 6 years and according to the experts the probability of one of us hitting a hole in one is just about due. The chances of a social golfer having a hole in one is somewhere around 13000-16000 to 1. Over the last 12 years we have hit close to 14,298 shots in to par 3 holes but no one as yet has managed to get one exactly right. When someone does get a Hole in One, they will be lucky enough to win a winery tour for two people through the Yarra Valley courtesy of Evergreen Winery Tours.

We are hoping some other members might be able to get involved and do some sort of sponsorship if the opportunity arises. We are happy to plug your product or promote your business in return for some sort of commitment to the operation of Social Club. Please let me know if there is anything you can do to get involved.

Commercial Golf Club (Albury) Golf Trip Results

GOLF TRIP 2016

They say that a picture tells a thousand words and that is exactly what I will be hoping will be the case for this newsletter, the blurb usually runs in at around 10,000 words so I am hoping if I can gather at least 10 to 20 photos from the weekend then that will satisfy my obligations to recount the trials and tribulations of our Albury adventure. I usually struggle to remember what happened on the way up to the golf trip let alone what happened once the beer started flowing so it is highly likely that the events and any memory of the 2016 golf trip have all been lost except for the photo gallery supplied by all of the guys who attended.

Congratulations to Steve O'Sullivan who was officially inducted in the Centurion (100) Club Hall of Fame on Friday afternoon after he started the weekend with an absolute shocker. It can't be determined whether it was the early morning start or the multitude of beers during the 4 hour drive to Albury but no matter what it was, Steve was horrible.

SOS posted an unofficial score a score of 100 plus as he swatted and shanked, topped and three putted his way around the picturesque Commercial Golf course. SOS was calling for help (S.O.S) as early as the 2nd hole when he hooked his drive into the fringe of the large barrel storm water drain that meandered through the entire front nine holes.

When he tried to play his way out of the difficult lie SOS ended up missing the ball entirely and his air-swing resulted in him toppling over backwards and nearly falling to his death down the steep 2x meter trench.

We nearly caught the entire episode on video, unfortunately however Stu Coops doesn't know how to use his mobile phone properly so the end result he only took a photo instead of a video and that was not even half as funny as the actual scene that played out in real life.

SOS did not improve much as the weekend went on, the 12 handicapper hit double his handicap (92 Nett 84) on the Saturday Round and then was piggy backed around the course by Rick Turcinovic who was required to record his name on the scorecard for 6 holes in a row while he waited for SOS to get a decent drive into play.

About the only good driving that SOS did over the entire three days was at about 615am on Friday morning when he was tagged into the drivers seat by Newell Richards who had gotten himself into a bit of trouble when he had accidentally jack knifed his trailer at the end of Paul Avenue in Knox and he could not work out how to reverse his trailer back onto the road. Highway had never actually backed a trailer before the golf trip so when he decided to pull the Newell mobile into the drive way of the Jones family house at sunrise he was asking for trouble.

You can imagine the fear in the Jones' house when they were awoken at 6am by the sound of a car pulling into their driveway and then when they looked out the bedroom window there was a great big grey bus with 5 burly guys in it and a trailer in tow. Once Newell's car drove up and back for the ninth time getting further and further up the driveway each time, they must have been convinced they were about to be robbed or abducted especially when suddenly the sliding door at the back of the Newell mobile and the front driver door opened at the same time and there were people walking around outside in their front yard. There is little doubt that the fingers must have been on the phone dialing triple "OOO" so it was lucky for all concerned that Steve O'Sullivan was able to straighten the trailer and then get it off their property on his first attempt with just one finger on the steering wheel and a couple of cursory looks into the mirror. Newell was then left to do the walk of shame as SOS drove off and left him to find his own way back up Paul Avenue to where the boys set about picking up Big Mick and reloading the trailer.

Douggo had little problems getting to Albury, he booked himself a first class train ticket from Spencer street and literally walked out his front door, boarded his own private train carriage and then chilled out with a can in hand while the rest of us were motoring down the highway.

Some argued that Douggo had taken the girl's way out to and given the luggage tags that were put on his golf clubs it seems that even the Public Transport Network were inclined to agree.

Evidently in all the rush to get to the station on time, (2 minute walk) Glen had accidentally packed the wife's golf clubs instead of his own.

In a sense it was quite appropriate for Douggo to be using a set of ladies golf sticks especially since on more than a few occasion he was seen playing his second stroke from behind the ladies tees and of course there is the well-known fact that any person who is seen drinking a $3.99 bottle of red wine on the Saturday night of a boys weekend deserves to be called a woman.

While Douggo was riding the railways there was plenty of drinking going on in the cars. By the time everyone had arrived at Albury, almost all except for the designated drivers were well hydrated, lubricated and ready for action.

We use the word “MOST” very generously because there was at least one person who did not get in the spirit of the weekend and therefore could have quite easily have borrowed Glenn Douglas’ women’s golf clubs, pink bag tag, played off the women’s tee’s, drunk cheap red wine and even the pink dress, the wig and carried a handbag.

We of course are referring to the now crowned 2016 Sunday Leave Pass points champion, Andrew Clarke who while his competitor Mick Harper was smashing down bourbons and beers from 7am til 2am drinking himself to the point where he was so pissed that he got us kicked out of the bar on Friday night for starting a fight and then not being even being in a capable state to beat up a midget. Andrew on the other hand was abstaining and getting as much rest as he could on the trip down the Hume Highway.

8.11am Friday 9th December 2hours into the trip Mick’s empties.

7.07am Friday 9th December. 1 Hour into the trip.

9.41am Friday 9th December. 3& 1/2 hours into the trip.

When he finally did wake up, Andrew had a good weekend. By 3pm on Saturday afternoon he came as close to having a smile on his face as we will ever see him. Once his name was announced as the Sunday Leave Pass Points Championship winner for the 2016 season all of the excuses about a bad back, lack of sleep, not playing as many rounds as everyone else, the course being better suited to big hitters, food poisoning from the night before etc. etc. were quickly forgotten.

It was good to see that Andrew was able to recite his victory speech especially since my young son Josh came to me a couple of weeks ago to complain that he couldn’t get to sleep at nights because each and every night all that he could hear was Andrew rehearsing his title acceptance speech in the bathroom which happens to be directly opposite his bedroom.

Andrew was also crowned the most improved player for the year and he was so besotted by his trophies that he cuddled them all of the way home in the car. Well until he fell asleep anyway.

Andrew had his eyes open for just about the same amount of time that he had his wallet open. He enjoyed the free drinks on Saturday night and he could not get enough into him while the club was paying for them, but he suddenly struggled to find any money to buy a drink when the bar tab run out because he couldn't find his money when it came to having a beverage that came with a price tag this is probably because it was hidden behind all of the paper receipts that he hoards in his wallet. Me thinks this may be why his wallet was so full.

Winners are grinners and it should be said that Todd Neilson the “Canadian Boat Person” was grinning from ear to ear when he received his shield and jacket. Todd was one of the nine players who was competing for the Champion of Champions title, having won his qualifying entry by wining monthly title at Devils Bend in May.

The Champion of Champions competition was played off between all of the players who won a monthly competition during the year; the champion of champions is the player who has the best score from all of the monthly winners who attended the golf trip. This competition was played off over 9 mystery holes on the Saturday competition with the player who scored the most stableford points taking out the title and adorned the coveted winner’s jacket. Obviously Todd Managed to post a few good scores in the correct place because at the end of the day his 16 Stableford points was sufficient to win him the title.

Ranking	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
Player	Todd Neilson	Shane Cumming	Gerard MacIsaac	Steve Osullivan	Leigh MacIsaac	Stuart Cooper	Andrew Clarke	Ron Parsons	Glenn Douglas
Points	16 points (9 holes)	14 points (8 holes)	14 points (9 holes)	12 points (9 holes)	11 points (9 holes)	10 points (9 holes)	10 points (9 holes)	10points (9 holes)	10points (9 holes)

Todd only just beat Shanno by 2 points, but remembering that because Shane was the December winner he (Cider) was only allocated stableford points on 8 holes instead of 9 holes so it was a close competition on a tough course. Previous winners have accumulated scores of 20 plus stableford points to win the title.

In the past we have had a rule that as the Champion of Champions, the jacket wearer has had the entitlement of having every other member of the group buy him a drink on the Saturday night of the golf trip.

It has been decided that this has become a pointless exercise because all of the drinks are free courtesy of the fine jar and beer wench on Saturday night anyway.

Therefore in the true Australian way we have changed the format and constitution to work in the foreigners favor and as of next year we will be handing out ongoing benefits to make life easy for the Canadian boat person.

Todd will be the first person who will receive long term benefits for his Champion of Champions round. Next year as the Champion of Champions Todd will be able to ask any Sunday Leave Pass member to buy him a drink, it is limited to only receiving one drink per member (beer or soft) over the entire year and it can only be done so if he is wearing the Champion of Champion jacket at the time. This of course is excluding new members that didn’t play in season 2016 but not exclusive to those who attended the golf trip. So if he manages himself correctly he should be looking at up to 50 free beers or soft drinks over the next 12 months. Now that is a prize worth aspiring for.

The other condition is that Todd must be the one who consumes the drink and he cannot use his power to buy beverages for anyone else.

Over the weekend there were a few guys who came very close to shouting the bar for scoring a hole in one. On Saturday afternoon Jamie Brunton came with in a bee’s dikk of scoring the perfect shot on the 17th hole. Jamie caressed his 5 iron off the tee, deliberately taking an extra club more than he needed with the knowledge that the green was protected by a steep bank that would steer a ball back onto the cut surface. Jamie’s ball landed softly on the bank and then bounced sideways before tracking towards the hole. According to the guys ahead who had the perfect vantage point, the ball was on a direct line to the hole for all of the way. Evidently the players in the group on the tee in front got so excited by Jamie’s shot that they almost needed a Kleenex and an apology as they cheered and rooted for the ball to go into the hole. Only in the last 5cm did the ball ever look like missing. Unfortunately in the last instant the contours of the green was just sufficient for the ball to miss to the high side, and sadly for Jamie the ball hit the lip and finished within a meter of the flagstick which was way too far away for him to drain the birdie putt.

Gerard MacIsaac also came extremely close to scoring a hole in one, well so he says anyway. Gerard actually won 4 out of 6 NTP prizes on Sunday so he definitely had his radar on. His best shot however was almost an ace on the 12th hole and he says it was lucky that it didn't go into the hole because none of his playing partners were there to witness it. Apparently his perfectly struck 8 iron was a waste of time and effort as they weren't even watching. The credit of getting a hole in one would have been lost on Gerard's playing partners as they were too busy off on other parts of the golf course doing their own thing.

Just a reminder that if or when someone does actually get a Hole in One, they will be lucky enough to win a winery tour for two people through the Yarra Valley courtesy of Evergreen Winery Tours. This prize has been donated by Geoff Cooper.

Hitting the ball so close to the hole is one sure way to guarantee your-self a birdie. Gerard and several other boys had quite a few birdies over the three days however the most memorable Birdie would have to be the one hit by Mick Harper, although in this instance a sub-par score was not actually registered on his score card.

According to our sources Mick launched a massive drive down the 4th fairway on Saturday which was an attempt to cut the corner and drive the green. The Big Fella got a great piece of the ball and there is a very good chance that had it flown just a little bit higher the ball may have cleared the tree's flew over the storm water drain and potentially landed on the green to set up an eagle if not at least a birdie opportunity. Unfortunately that wasn't the case and the ball smashed into the branches of a large gum tree. The urban golfing myth is that a tree is actually made up of 90% air, unfortunately for Mick the other 10% is composed of branches, leaves and sometimes a small percentage 0.05% of the tree can be made up of birds such as the rare endangered Albury yellow crested white cockatoo. As Micks ball crashed through the tree there was suddenly a puff of white feathers his ball ricocheted into the barrel drain and there was a loud thud as something heavy fell from the foliage. On a closer inspection it was discovered that that the population count of cockatoos in Albury had been reduced by one and although Micks intention to hit a birdie had been fulfilled it wasn't exactly what he had in mind.

There were plenty of other times when golfers managed to hit their ball into the 10% of the mass of the tree. Phil Plane hit his ball up into a paper bark tree and the ball just stayed up there. The ball was actually identified in the tree however it was 4 meters off the ground and it was stuck in the bark in such a way that it was never coming down.

Rick Turcinovic also managed to stick his ball to the trunk of a tree. Rick's ball was found on the 16th hole resting in the notches of a tree trunk with his smiley face ball marking looking out to the world as if it was just taking the piss out of Rick's predicament.

Needless to say the 5 times crowned Sunday Leave Pass Angry Man spent plenty of time over the three days cursing and cussing at anything and everything although from what we saw out on the fairways his performance on the course was credible if not commendable.

Stu Coops also hit his fair share of shots into the tree's, the drains and almost every other part of the golf course other than where he was aiming. Stu's ball was found on the 10th green after teeing off the 11th hole. Although that doesn't sound overly unusual in theory, in practice the ball would have had to have crossed 2x fairways a cart path, a maintenance shed and travelled 250 meters to get there.

Stu's most errant drive however was on the 18th hole. The 18th is by far the most majestic hole on the golf course, it starts from an elevated tee looking down a valley with a 20 degree slope on the fairway enabling you to drive up the right hand side of the hole and then your ball naturally rolls down the slope and around the left handed dog leg corner.

As to be expected Stu missed the corner and pushed his drive straight out to the right. His ball cleared the tree's flew over the adjoining houses, past or over the large Albury water towers and disappeared into the ether never to be seen again. That was what we thought anyway. As it happens when Stu arrived back at the motel which abutted the 18th fairway he jokingly said to the guys sitting around the pool, "Did anyone happen to see a Titleist 1 come by this way". Amazingly Cliff Rowe mentioned in a passing comment that there was a golf ball in the garden bed over near the motel rooms, just between Steve Pownes 4wd Prada and his own car.

Sheepishly Stu went over to investigate and sure enough sitting at the base of a staked rose bush was none other than a Titleist 1 with Stu's unique target markings on it. Luckily there were no dints to be found on either Steve or Cliffy's cars and it was later discovered courtesy of feedback from the motel manager that there was a loud thud heard on the roof of the motel, so obviously Stu's Ball hand landed on the roof of the motel and then rolled off and into the garden beds. Stu did then go on to try to check with the rules committee to see if he could take the free drop away from the staked tree and play out the 18th hole again. Any improvement on the 9 that he had posted on the official round would have been a great improvement.

Gerard Mac didn't do much better. Gerard hooked a drive into a tree on the right hand side of the 18th hole and his ball deflected off to the right and over the boundary perimeter fence. Although his ball could clearly be heard smashing onto the tiled roof of an adjoining property there was no need to play a provisional ball because somehow miraculously with the aid of an A-Grade bounce, Gerard's Ball ricocheted back into play and was found in the middle of the fairway some 55 meters away from the house with the roof with a damaged tile and dented solar panels. Gerard finished the hole by lipping out for par and making an easy tap in Bogey.

Chris Sfiligoj has been awarded the Sunday Leave Pass idiot of the weekend award. For years it has been stated that Chris is the smart one in the Sfiligoj family and many have questioned how it could even be possible for the Supercoach and Chris to have come from the same gene pool. Unfortunately all of that came unstuck this weekend when Chris proved once and for all that he is just as dumb as his brother looks. The Albury golf course is lined with large open water storm drain and these hazards make up a main feature of the course. By design the green is often protected by one of these drains meaning you actually need to hit over the hazard with your approaching shots. The access points to those greens have narrow walking bridges and there are massive signs at the bridge that read "No Carts beyond this point." It should be said that Chris does wear glasses and he did also have a few beers over the weekend so he may be able to use either of these excuses to explain that perhaps he was blind (in either tense of the word) and he therefore could not read the signs.

However as an architect you would expect him to have pretty good spatial relations perception, so it was a bit of a shock to see him try to drive a 190cm wide golf cart over a 170cm wide foot bridge. As could be expected it didn't work out all that well for Chris or the golf cart for that matter.

As he tried to drive across the bridge Chris smashed the wheels of the cart into the guard rails and bumped his head on the front wind screen in the process. Consequently Chris developed a sudden head ache and the front suspension of the golf cart established a sudden pull to the left as one of the sway bars on the front axle became detached from the steering arm.

Even without the golf cart Chris still had difficulty orienting his golf clubs. We are still unsure of what exactly he was trying to do on Saturday night, but what we do know is that he somehow managed to park his pull cart on top of himself while he was laying in his bed trying to sleep.

Albury was a pretty little golf course, the bush and rough was very well manicured if not non-existent, so you always had every chance to see your balls while they were in play. This was voted as picture of the week, it was a raw photo taken which gives a great view looking straight down the first hole.

Even with the low cut rough there were still several instances where players accidentally played the wrong ball. Highway copped a two shot penalty when he walked straight up to Steve O'Sullivan's golf ball and whacked it down the fairway in the opposite direction to which SOS was heading.

Jamie Brunton says his favorite moment of all of the moments on the golf trip (even better than nearly having a hole in one) was watching Tony MacIsaac walking dejectedly over to his nephew, shoulders dropped, to tell him that he did in fact play the wrong ball. As Jamie put's it PRICELESS.....

Congratulations to the boys who managed to successfully drink the golf club dry of Bourbon on Saturday night. The Beer wench worked hard to keep everyone hydrated and the end result was that the bar actually ran completely out of the spirit of choice. Amazingly the fine jar money was completely depleted by 1000pm and thankfully we managed to not get kicked out which was a vast improvement on the previous night.

The only issue we had with the Beer Wench drinks was there were a lot of soldiers left behind. I understand that it is fun to watch the beer wench run to and from the bar on a regular basis. In fact it's great to make him work hard, however the theory is if you order a drink you actually need to consume it. This was a table with not a Sunday Leave Pass player left standing as all of the guys had gone to bed and as a result there were 5 drinks looking and waiting for an owner.

FUN & FRIVOLITY & a whole lot of love.

Sunday is the day of sore heads and recovery and that is why it is structured as a compulsory Golf Cart and a pairs Ambrose golf tournament for the BEER & BEROCCA SHEILD. With Dale pulling out at the last minute the teams were rejigged and it was decided that Dales partner Chris would be partnered up with whoever had the misfortune of being partnered up with the Saturday Beer Wench to make a group of 3. This worked out very well for Mick who was able to engrave his name on the Beer and Berocca shield for the 4th time. History says that whenever there is a group of three players they always seem to win the competition, each year we are modifying the handicapping system to try to come up with a system that equalizes the advantage of the 3rd shot. Even with Greg Breasley standing at the end of the club there is definitely a major advantage of the third player and this is why the threesome groups feature so heavily on the Beer & Barocca Sheild hall of fame.

The Social club runs as a neutral organization and all of the money we raise each year is spent on prizes and we start each year with basically a zero $$$$ bank balance. As was to be expected the fine jar kitty was drunk dry in the early hours of Sunday morning and the proceeds of the club activities which includes green fees, and beverage & merchandise sales were invested in the form of prizes for the end of year raffle draw. In total we had more than $2000 worth of prizes to give away. The spoils were spread over more than 25 of our members.

The raffle is conducted by issuing every player a ticket for each round of golf that they play over the course of the year. If a player wears the Sunday Leave Pass Club shirt to the round they are given a second raffle ticket. We also run an 18x hole skins competition where every hole is worth one raffle ticket and a player wins raffle tickets for scoring a better stableford score than the rest of the field. In the skins competition whenever 2 or more players have the best score on a hole the raffle tickets carry over and jackpot until a unique hole-winner is achieved. Some players had some significant Jackpots through the year where they won 6 or more skins at the one time. This dramatically increases the number of raffle tickets a player has but at the end of the day the raffle all comes down to chance.

As a matter of fairness a player is only entitled to take home one prize no matter how many times their name is drawn in the raffle. A player is entitled to upgrade to a better prize if their name comes out again and the lesser prize is redrawn. In order to qualify for the Major Prizes a player must have played at least 6 rounds with the club or be in attendance at the Golf Trip to claim the prize.

Congratulations to all of the winners.

PLEASE NOTE: If you have won a prize and you were not on the golf trip to collect your prize please be aware that we will not be chasing you up. The prizes will be kept in storage until the end of the next season and if they have not been claimed by the winners by next season's golf trip then they will be added to next year's raffle. So remember that if you have won a prize you will need to drop me an email or call me to claim your prize and arrange for your prize to be made available to you. If a player has not read the results email or checked up on the Sunday Leave Pass website then they will not be aware of their winnings and therefore not deserving of the prize.

Please make sure you let us know as early as possible if you will be playing in January as we will be hoping for big attendances each month and we have only booked for limited players. See you all out there again in January at Gardiners Run.
