Growling Frog Golf Course Results September

Before we get into the results here's just a bit of administration to get organized.

It is now time to pay the balance of deposit for the 2010 Thurgoona Golf trip. I'd like to say a special thanks to all of the guys who have been paying throughout the course of the year and hopefully your reward is that now you won't have to take much of a chunk out of the family food kitty this month.

It would be appreciated if everyone paid the balance before the start of the next round, but it would be even better if you ran with the concept of “why not pay it now” then I don't have to spend the next 4 weeks chasing everyone up. Please EFT the balance owing to the normal account and don't forget to put in the narration of who it is from and what it is for.

ie. : StuGOLFTRIP This allows us to easily track where each payment has come from and even go one better and send me an email to say you have transferred the money so I know to keep an eye out for it.

There are a few beds still available so if anyone were marked as a “NO” but has decided to come after all, please drop me a line to let me know you are a starter. It will be a great weekend, and with more than $200 in the fine jar to go towards food and drink it should be an inexpensive one too.

The following is a list of players and the balance paid so far. The total cost of the trip is $235.00 which includes: 2x night's accommodation, cooked breakfast on Saturday and Sunday morning, unlimited golf on Saturday and Sunday, Saturday BBQ lunch (courtesy of the fine jar), Dinner vouchers for Friday and Saturday night, and some free drinks on Saturday night.

Dale has just opened his new Print shop in Bayswater and to help him get started we are offering an extra raffle ticket for every $100 spent at DNR print between now and the 24th of October. So if you needed $1000 worth of printing done anyway, if you put the order through Dale this month you will get 10 extra chances to win the end of year raffle prize.

All of the courses for the 2011 fixture have all been booked. There are some great golf courses on offer next year. To view the 2011 fixture it is listed on the Sunday Leave Pass Website, 2011 Golf Fixture or 2011 Calender . We are hoping to try and get the SLP Fixture wallet cards printed by the October round so that we can distribute them to the players who will not be going on the end of year trip. Thanks to all of the guys who contributed to the great selection of golf courses by voting for their personal preferences in the 2011 golf courses ballot. Although due to unpopular demand we are trying to cancel the Growling Frog course for something a little more user friendly.

We will be running a ballot again for the 2012 fixture so please keep in mind that if you want to nominate a particular golf course and get it listed on the voting sheet, please drop me an email studaydream@gmail.com in advance or let me know and I will add it to the ballot sheet. To see what was on offer last year you can click on the following link.

Choose the Golf Courses for 2012

Please Note: we will not be taking nominations until after the golf trip.

We also need to start investigating who will be likely players for the 2011 season. We have booked for a maximum of 32 players each month which going on this year's numbers should be fine, but with a distribution list of over 40 regular players, if everyone started playing each month we would have a shortfall. So please advise us if you think you have intention to play regularly next year.

As the 2010 season draws to a close it is also time to start contemplating your nominations for the 2010 player's choice awards. With only one more round to play before the voting starts, you should keep your eyes and ears out for candidates for the following trophies.

- * ANGRY MAN award
- * LEATHER WEDGE award
- * MOST IMPROVED player
- * LEAST IMPROVED player

With the carry over champion Fil only playing 2x games in 2010 the odds of him taking out Angryman and leather wedge titles for the third year in succession have been adjusted to even money whereas at the start of the year he was a sure thing, and odds on favorite.

Voting will not start until after the Amstel round but please put some thought into you main suspects. I will send further correspondence at a late date including the criteria for each of the awards.

Before you check the results please check your status below and reply so that we know whether you will be playing next month.

Since footy season is all finished now we are anticipating a big field for October especially being the last round before the golf trip. So please reply ASAP.

Growling Frog Golf Course Results

September

You really could not ask for a worse outcome for the weekend,

1. On Friday Night, Collingwood demolished Geelong to secure their spot in the 2010 AFL grand final (and it sickens me to say they're a dead certainty to win it too)
2. Saturday came and the Bulldogs played a shocker and secured their spot at the Mad Monday celebrations by losing their Grand Final berth to St Kilda, and then
3. the Sundays Leave Pass was a complete waste of freedom because the time away from the family was absolutely wasted chasing a collection of stupid white round balls around a less than impressive golf course.

To put it in perspective here's the response that was given to Jamie when he merely inquired how the golf went.

Sunday was a good turn out, the bar sales were good, it didn't rain, the company was pleasant, the pies in the pro-shop were delicious, petrol was cheap, I found 20c in the car park, I came home to a nice cooked dinner, the kids went to bed early and slept all night. But the golf was crap!!

One would expect that as we continue to play regular rounds of golf, theoretically all of our scores should be improving, but on the contrary it is the complete opposite. Once again the scores this month have been absolutely disgraceful and for some unknown reason they continue to get depressingly worse (except for Mick Harper) rather than better. The only one consolation, to the bad golf is that it usually leads to higher bar sales as we drown our sorrows and try to find solace at the bottom of a can.

There was certainly more than a Growling Frog on the golf course this month. Brendan put his hand up for an Angryman award nomination as he cursed, cussed and swore his way around the testy links layout. No one could work out whether he was late for an appointment or just infuriated, but Brendan who is usually the guy who is normally the last man standing at the bar having a joke and a chat, had his car loaded up and on the road before anyone even knew that he had finished his round.

Brendan wasn't alone though, at one stage the course marshal was called out to investigate some unsociable comments being yelled across the fairways. There was concern a fight may break out when a player was heard screaming "Come on you big, fat hairy, stupid, goat fondling prick!!!!" however once it was discovered that the profanities were from Rick Turcinovic directed at himself, the marshal realized there was no cause to be alarmed, and in fact he was inclined to agree that the description was reasonably accurate.

While Ricks self deprecating verbal tirades were relatively harmless, Tony MacIssac on the other hand got a little hot on the collar too, but his frustration led to the decapitation of his new putter. Tony returned to the car park with the shaft in one compartment of his golf bag and the putter head in different pocket. Although he claims that it was an accident and says the putter head fell off accidentally while he was carrying it, I have never seen or heard of a club disintegrating for no apparent reason without at least some kind of assistance or applied force. Although Tony believes this was actually the case in this instance, I will let you guys decide for yourself, especially when you hear that the spontaneous implosion of the putter occurred on a hole that after 2x strokes Tony still hadn't manage to pass the ladies tee's and he finished the hole with a score of 12 after three putting the green. (mmmm ????? !!!)

Tony, Brendan and Rick were not the only one's to have a tough day at the office. Greg Breasley claims that he actually saw more sights, and ended up in more exotic locations over the 18 holes at Growling Frog, than he did during his 10x weeks travelling around the globe on his world trip holiday. Greg spent most of the day sight seeing, (looking for balls) he visited dams, foraged around in garden beds, dug in the sand and dodged huge volcanic precipices during his exploration of the Growling Frog layout. At one stage he even had to go searching for his driver after he threw it away in disgust, unfortunately even that didn't go according to plan and the club flew off in a different direction to where Greg was aiming and it too was nearly lost amongst the dense Yan Yean rough.

It was very easy to get in trouble at Growling Frog, any ball slightly askew would usually end up in thick rough, where you were certain to get a very bad lie and that is if you were lucky enough to find the ball at all. Consequently it was the recovery shots that had the most important influence on the final score for the day. There were some bad attempts to get the ball back in to play from the rough and the outcome was often a score of 9, 10 or even worse. However there were some noteworthy shots that should get a mention.

Lukey D found himself up to his boots in trouble when he sliced his ball into one of the dams on the 5th hole. Rather than take a penalty drop and most likely due to some severe coercion from his fellow playing partner, Lukey opted instead to try and extricate his semi submerged ball out of the lake with a 9 iron. Amazingly with an all mighty splash, which sent mud and tadpoles flying in all directions, the ball somehow managed to reappear from beneath the water and rolled down the middle of the fairway setting up a chip and a putt giving him a brilliant 6 which may have otherwise been easily a 9 or 10.

Stu Coops was forced to dig deep when his ball disappeared 2 inches below the sandy surface in the face of a bunker, where a kangaroo had pounced. Despite having no access to the ball without the assistance of an excavator, miraculously Stu somehow managed to blast his ball out of the crevice and onto the green. It was the only shot Stu could smile about because it was yet another tough day at the office for him. Stu even managed to lose the same ball twice. He lost his ball on the 11th hole, and it when it was returned to him several holes later when Steve Powne found it and recognized the identification markings, he then managed to lose it again by the end of the next hole.

Dean Fitzpatrick proved himself a master at the long bunker shot. He was undaunted by the presence of the 158 bunkers spread out across the Growling Frog fairways, in fact at times it appeared that he may have actually tried to aim at them because he was so confident he could get the ball out with such ease. Of all the outs he played, there was none better than the crisp 5 iron he struck from a bunker 180 meters out from the green. Deano did not dislodge even a single grain of sand as he sweetly plucked the ball from the pot landing the ball with the finesse of a tournament pro in the heart of the green setting himself up with a three meter birdie attempt. Although he missed the putt it was probably one of the best pars for the day.

As well as magnificent bunker play, Deano also rolled in some monster putts, he chipped well, and also played some thumping drives. In fact the only shot that he seemed to struggle with was the low 7 iron. Hitting into a strong head wind in the 155 meter Par 3 second hole, Dean announced that the best shot to play would be a low 7 iron to avoid the influence of the gale force wind blowing directly into his face. It sounded logical and Steve O'Sullivan looked on with interest as the theory was put to the test. Interestingly, the low 7 iron rose some 96 meters into the air and nearly blew back over Deans head as it battled to break through the wind. "Bloody Hell if that is a low 7 iron, I would hate to see what a high one looks like!" laughed SOS as the ball plopped back down from orbit some 65 seconds later.

True to the reputation of a genuine links golf course the wind was very strong at Growling Frog. Without any trees to shelter you from the elements, the playing conditions were tough especially when you were within earshot or your nasal sensory range of Lukey D. While most players battled to control the ball in the wind, Luke Dumbrell was battling a wind condition of his own making. It seemed the 5 or 6 (10 or 12 more like it) Bourbons from Saturday night had worked their way through the system and Luke was struggling to keep his gastric build up in check.

The constant croaking of the endangered "Growling Grass Frog" around the golf course was somewhat drowned out by the squeaking of an irritable bowel suffering from excess alcohol exposure. By the 13th hole the cacophony of internal notes had reached such a crescendo that the local residents had called in an environmentalist research herpetologist because they believed a new species of frog may have been located. No such luck for the locals, since there was no new frog, however they did discover a pair of pre-loved brown underwear which Luke Dumbrell had lost on the course. Mr. Dumbrell finished the game without the restriction of underwear, he says he took his undies off because they were making him uncomfortable, but given the groans and murmuring coming from his gut, it is more likely that he may have followed up with more vibrant flatulent exertions.

To be honest the only player not to have his pants pulled down by the difficult Growling Frog golf course, was the soon to be crowned 2010 seasons champion Mick Harper. Mick had no difficulty navigating the difficult Graeme Marsh designed layout, he birdied the first and eighth holes and also had 7 pars to complete the day with a Nett 69. Perhaps it was the new $500 odyssey putter that he recently purchased that gave him the edge, but as Neil Phillips said after the game. “What a waste of money. He goes and buys a $500 putter and he never has to hit the ball further than about 6 feet, because he always hits the ball so close to the damn hole that he could probably putt it in with a flaccid penis.”

Congratulations to Mick, he has had a brilliant season this year and he genuinely deserves his spot at the top of the leader board. His 7 shot victory at Growling Frog gives him his third monthly title for the year, and he also out muscled the power hitting of Steve Powne, to lay claim to the longest drive prize although Steve does want it to be known it was only by a mere 5 meters.

Tony Grasso junior managed to be the best of the rest. He played within the buffer zone of his new handicap and was rewarded with 14 championship points for his 109 gross score. With all of the veterans struggling to play well lately, the Callaway handicap has once again worked in the favor of the three new recruits who incredibly all shot the same score beating the dreaded century by a single shot. John Sobba claimed 3rd prize with a Callaway handicap of 23, SOS (our newest bushranger) beat John Mae on a count back to win 4th position with a Nett 77. I would suggest that Mick, Gerard and Alister had better watch out, because you are going to have some competition next season, since this fella can really play the game. What’s more the talk around town is that he may have gone to the Mark Sfiligoj Super-coach school of golf strategies and that he may in fact, be just holding pack a few gears so he starts on a very healthy handicap for 2011.

Don't forget that it is very important to count all of your shots, rounding down your score is not an acceptable practice. One or two strokes doesn't sound like much, over 18 holes, but it can often be the difference between 2nd and 8th position on the points tally. Penalty strokes, air-swings or missed gimmee putts all need to be counted or else you might find your name being engraved on the leather-wedge trophy at the end of the year.

Handicaps

Only Mick Harper managed to play 3x stroke s better than his handicap, he was stripped of 0.6 shots for his 8 over par 80 round. The Callaway system was used to calculate the handicaps for the new guys who will be allocated official handicaps pending their third rounds with the club at Amstel next month. Tony Grasso Junior played with in the buffer zone of his handicap and therefore keeps the same handicap whereas for the rest it is onwards and upwards as another 0.1 strokes is added to our handicaps.

As has been mentioned in previous correspondence we will continue to use the old handicap scoring system until the start of 2011 season although we will keep the website updated with what your projected handicap is likely to be under the new Slope handicap scoring system, It is interesting to compare each players handicap under both systems when you make comparisons between the old and the new they handicaps are amazingly similar.
